Degradation: Causes, Impacts and Remedies'. He also stated that each organism is the part of ecosystem but human is dominant one and he is taking most benefits from environment. Hence it is our duty to take care of environment. This seminar is organised to discuss about present situation of environment, causes behind environmental degradation and possible remedies regarding environmental protection. It is expected that each participant will share this idea to their students and society.

In inaugural speech, Dr R T Bedre explained that, "India is one of the countries having large biodiversity and each organism is dependent on the biogeochemical cycles. Human being is dependent on environment since its appearance on the earth. After industrialisation, human beings started destroying the forests and thereby deteriorating the environment resulting in the environmental hazards especially during last three decades. Ozone layer is getting depleted day by day resulting into the global warming. Today the whole world is facing problems of global warming like polar ice melting rise in sea level irregular and uneven rainfall etc." In presidential address, Hon Vyankatraoji Kadam told that 'Climate change has affected on every aspect of life it is affecting agriculture very badly hence countries like India is suffering badly as it is affecting on economy of the nation. This session was anchored by Dr. B. V Andhale and Dr. S. V. Rankhamb while vote of thanks was expressed by Dr. S. A. Tengse (Convenor of the event).
