One-Day Intercollegiate workshop on INNOVATION AND BEST PRACTICES

Internal Quality Assurance Cell of Late Ramesh Warpudkar Arts, Commerce & Science College, Sonpeth organised one-day intercollegiate workshop on Innovation and Best Practices on 22nd July 2023. The workshop divided into four sessions viz. Inaugural session, presentation/ main session, QnA session and valedictory function. The workshop began with formal inaugural ceremony with lighting the lamp and garlanding the image of Swami Ramanand Teerth. It is followed by the formal felicitation of resource person, chairman of the function and coordinator. Chairman of the session Principal Dr. V.D. Satpute, resource person Dr. D.G. Sawant and coordinator of IQAC and workshop Dr. M.B. Patil were present on the stage. In his introductory remarks, Dr. Patil shed light on the importance and necessity of best practices and innovation in the process of teaching, learning, evaluation and research. Then Dr. V.K. Jaybhaye introduced the resource person to the audience.

It is followed by the detailed presentation of Dr. Sawant on best practices performed in an institution. Initially, he set the tone for various best practices already existed in the college that how a small practice in any area could be converted into best practice. E.g. among the 7 criteria of assessment and evaluation, each criteria comprises of best practices. The need is to set them into a proper frame of best practice. Further in his presentation, he explained how a best practice can be designed with available practices in teaching, learning, evaluation, admission process, administration, NSS, sports, co-curricular activities, cultural and extension activities, research, etc. According to him, a college can earn 30 points in the NAAC assessment and evaluation if the best practice is innovative, reflects local temperament, has concrete outcome, proper evidence to provide, and it presented well and properly.

After the extensive presentation of the resource person, doubts and questions regarding the best practices raised by a few teachers from the audience. The resource person answered them satisfactorily. Then the chairman of programme Principal Dr. Satpute remarked on the whole workshop proposing that the college will initiate a few new best practices and refine already existing practices and activities. According to him, it is the will and efforts of the teachers and staff members which determines and shapes whole process of smooth conduct of practices and activities going on in the college. And it will also determine the outcome giving better results.

It is followed by the last session of valedictory function. The programme was anchored by Dr. Patil and vote of thanks proposed by Dr. Jaybhaye. All the teaching and support staff were present for the workshop.
